STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES
FAMILY STUDIES – Ph.D.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOME 1:

Students will demonstrate the ability to create new knowledge through the use of a variety of research methodologies and within the context of contemporary family theories in order to analyze, interpret, and synthesize a variety of types of data, resulting in products suitable for publication in primary sources.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOME 2:

Students will demonstrate the ability to seek, find, collate, evaluate, interpret and synthesize information on families and human services from a variety of sources into coherent, concise written materials, including research proposals and advanced reviews of the literature.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOME 3:

Students will be able to model and demonstrate leadership behaviors among human services professionals and to prepare professional oral, written, and audiovisual materials to communicate with range of audiences. Students will represent themselves and the profession with ethical and professional standards.